

“While I was completing my self portraits, I realized that a face (my face) can be composed in many different ways, each one just as correct as the next. If I use oil pastel or pencil or watercolor, the images will look different, but they will still be correct interpretations of my face. ”

—Nathan Ewing-Crystal, Collegiate School

“Ways to reduce prejudice and prevent racism from ever happening again: Volunteer in your neighborhood to get to know people in different cultures and find out about their customs and holidays and how they celebrate them. Involve groups of all cultures in a cultural festival. Acquire a foreign pen pal.”

—Natalie Dubrovsky, The Summit School
